

Ioanna ARCHONTAKI

National and Kapodistrian University of Athens (NKUA)

Ioanna Archontaki is a PhD candidate at the Communication and Media Studies Department at the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. Her focus is on the rise of populism in the digital age. Ioanna has completed her postgraduate studies in Political Communication, at the Department of Communication, the University of Amsterdam in 2011-2013 as well as in Journalism and New Media at the Department of Communication and Media Studies, the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens.

Previously she has completed her BSc in Political Science and Public Administration at the School of Economics and Political Sciences, the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens.